9:00AM-12:00PM
WORKSHOP A - “One and Done” Is No Fun: Risk Management for Everyone, Every Day (Separate registration and related fees apply.)

Too often, risk assessments are seen as a one-and-done process. But taking a holistic approach turns a risk assessment into a living document that can and should influence every step of a financial product’s life cycle. This workshop will empower you to create, manage and speak authoritatively about your risk model to both internal teams and regulators – even if you contract with a third-party solution provider.

You will learn how to:
· Perform immediate, informal risk assessments for any situation
· Enrich your risk assessment with data for better documentation
· Embed effective risk management throughout the product life cycle

Who Should Attend
· Compliance Managers
· Investment Managers
· IT Specialists
· AML Officers
· Regulators
· FIU Team Members
· Industry Consultants

*Separate registration required. Please inquire with your Account Representative.

Facilitators:
Hue Dang, CAMS-Audit, Global Head of New Ventures, ACAMS

Patrick Dutton, Financial Crimes Strategic Intelligence Director, Financial Crime Risk Management, Wells Fargo

Robin Garrison, Vice President, Strategic Innovations Director of Compliance, FirstBank

Valeria Vitola, Managing Director, Global Independent Assessment Head for AML, Sanctions and AB&C, Citigroup

12:00PM-1:00PM
WORKSHOP B Check-in (Separate registration and related fees apply.)
WORKSHOP B - Where the Regulations Meet the Road: Operational Efficiencies for Your AML Program (Separate registration and related fees apply.)

No BSA officer ever failed at the job for not knowing the “legs and regs.” Failure involves not putting them into practice effectively. With the global costs of financial crime compliance projected to be $274.1 billion, according to a 2022 Thomson Reuters report, the stakes are sky-high. And that doesn’t count the potential costs of non-compliance. Financial institutions need to ensure that all of these billions of dollars spent on AFC controls make a difference.

Unfortunately, compliance leaders tell ACAMS, there is a skill gap. For example, it’s easy to say “We need to perform KYC on all clients,” but what do you do with accounts when clients ignore requests to update their information?

In this interactive workshop, we will consider the three dimensions of people, process and technology to explore achieving effective compliance. We will review best practices in operationalizing AFC regulations and achieving efficiencies without compromising effectiveness.

You will learn how to:
• Be the change agent that enables your organization to execute AFC controls
• Use technology, both short term and long term, to achieve effective compliance
• Achieve efficiencies in implementing AFC regulations effectively
• Create repeatable feedback loops to develop and execute policies

Who Should Attend
• Compliance Officers
• MLRO / BSA Officers
• AML Professionals
• Consultants
• Risk Managers

Unlocking Transnational Criminal Finance: Innovative Strategies for Detection & Prevention

In this session, join Debra Geister, VP of Compliance Solutions at Socure, and Josh Fruth, an authority in combating threats posed by transnational criminal organizations and terrorism financing, as they explore the intricate web of revenue generation and illicit fund flow within global criminal networks. With extensive, Josh brings invaluable expertise to the discussion. In this session, you’ll hear first-hand insights and real-life stories from Josh’s experience in law enforcement – including roles with the Drug Enforcement Administration, US and NATO Special Operations, Department of Commerce, and the National Counterterrorism Center – that shed light on hybrid threat finance spanning drug trafficking to cybercrime.

Key takeaways include:

• Implementing dynamic KYC processes to mitigate risks
• Understanding potential FinCEN directives for proactive compliance
• Identifying synthetic mules to disrupt illicit transactions and enhance monitoring efforts

Presenters:
Debra Geister, Vice President of Compliance & Regulatory Solutions, Socure

Joshua Fruth, Co-Founder, Section 2, Former Counter Threat Finance Head at NATO Special Operations

Breaking Anonymity with AI: Advanced Detection of Shell Companies, Beneficial Ownership, and Sanctions Circumvention through Contextual Monitoring

Sanctioned parties and organized criminal networks are growing more sophisticated every day. The use of Shell Companies, Phoenix operations and Mule Accounts has made risk detection and beneficial ownership more and more difficult. This has put an unnecessary burden on investigators to gather the data and make the connections. Contextual Monitoring of customers and counterparties combined with perpetual monitoring of customers in place of static periodic reviews allows the power of entity resolution and network analytics to open a new world of risk detection and investigations. The panel will also explore a real case and identify how technology combined with better data sources and focused typologies have changed the way we can detect and investigate this growing crime.

Moderator:
Chris Bagnall, Head of Mid-Sized Banking Solutions, Quantexa, US

Presenters:
Christian Bermudez, CAMS, Regional Head of Major Financial Crimes Investigations, HSBC, US
Clark Frogley, Head of Financial Crime and KYC Solutions, Quantexa

Cybersecurity Risk Management: Avoiding Compromising Situations

An old joke answers the question “why robbers target banks” by answering “because that’s where the money is.” Cybercriminals are no different. Cyberattacks regularly lead the list of what keeps financial institution executives up at night; this session provides solutions other than melatonin.

You will learn how to:

· Identify the latest threats in the financial and cybersecurity realm
· Analyze what the new US cybersecurity strategy means for financial institutions
· Comply with the growing regulatory emphasis on operational cyber resilience

Moderator:
Kara Suro, Managing Director, BSA/AML Program and Global Sanctions, Charles Schwab

AMA (ASK ME ANYTHING) - The Future of Crypto Regulation at the Federal Level

In contrast to Europe, where Markets in Crypto Assets (MiCA) serves as a comprehensive regulatory framework, the United States has lacked a coordinated federal approach to regulating crypto assets. Our panelists will update the state of the struggle between Congress, the SEC and CFTC, and courts to define AML obligations and other requirements for crypto exchanges, miners and other virtual asset service providers. They’ll also examine the current stablecoin landscape, and look at whether court proceedings verify or undercut the regulation-by-enforcement approach that is applying securities law to many crypto transactions.

The Fourth Line of Defense: Whistleblowers and the New Cost of Non-Compliance

The Anti-Money Laundering (AML) Act and subsequent updates created a new FinCEN Whistleblower Program specifically to report Bank Secrecy Act violations. Today, the whistleblower provisions are an important consideration as part of BSA/AML and sanctions compliance.

You will learn how to:

• Identify the elements of BSA and sanctions violations covered under the AML Act Whistleblower Program
• Analyze US government priorities with the Whistleblower Program, including FinCEN's Office of the Whistleblower
• Assess the adequacy of internal reporting mechanisms and remediation measures in light of recent changes to the law

Moderator:

DEEP DIVE - Fill in the Blanks: The Future of Automation in SAR Investigations and Beyond

While the automation of many compliance functions is officially encouraged by efforts such as FinCEN's Innovation Initiative, implementation of AI or machine-learning models can be costly and require regulatory approval. In this session, hear from banks of varying sizes about how – and whether – to automate parts of the pre-investigation, investigation and SAR preparation process. More broadly speaking, how do institutions prioritize which processes use AI or machine learning versus rules-based decision making?

The Future of AML Starts Now: Expose Suspicion with Precision, Faster

The same financial crime challenges plaguing financial institutions for years. We are coping with high false-positive volumes and continually challenged with detecting suspicious activity. Our investigation teams are inundated with high-volume alerts and inconsistent, lengthy investigations. But there is an answer: technology advancements. With innovative technology, financial institutions can achieve efficiency and effectiveness when it comes to managing money laundering risks.

Find out exactly how modern technology can help reduce false positives, increase detection coverage, and manage investigation quality and speed. Leverage the proven capabilities available today to uncover previously undetected suspicious activity and mitigate risk.

• Learn how advances in technology can align with your organization’s financial crime program strategy
• Understand technology innovations and the respective benefits that they can deliver to your organization
• Gain insights on scale of technology adoption by industry participants, including its financial and operational value

First Things First: Parsing the National Priorities

When they were released in 2021, FinCEN's first set of national AML/CFT priorities set off a flurry of questions about implementation. Financial institutions hoped that the bureau's recent Notice of Proposed Rulemaking would provide greater clarity. Our panel will dissect the NPRM and discuss what has been clarified and whether any implementation issues remain. This session will also cover how to decide which priorities your institution should focus on and how to work with law enforcement in addressing them.

AMA (ASK ME ANYTHING) - Too Much Information?: Threats to SAR Secrecy and Safe Harbor Provisions

Confidentiality and “safe harbor” are supposed to underpin the Suspicious Activity Report filing process. But high-profile SARs have been made public in news reports, Congressional hearings and in court proceedings. What can banks do to ensure their own safe harbor protections?

You will learn how to:

• Identify the lessons learned from recent public SAR disclosures
• Assess both the value of filing “informational SARs” and the risks involved
• Cast the appropriate net when working with project-based or typology-based SARs

DEEP DIVE - Instant Payments and Sanctions Screening in 2024: Business as Usual or a new RBA?

Get up to speed on how instant payment networks operate, managing high-volume payment intermediaries, implications of ISO20022, and what it all means for the business strategy and sanctions screening response. Our panel will examine how sanctions programs are continuing to increase in complexity and the resulting implications for ensuring the robustness of screening processes. We will scrutinize how the extent of high velocity instant payments, along with increasing values and volumes of such payments, are impacting risk-based thinking in determining which instant payments should be screened. We will explore opportunities for improving data quality and completeness, lessons in how to reduce false positives and avoid excessive backlogs, plus horizon scanning on how sanctions screening teams are leaning into technology solutions.

Challenge the Status Quo for AML: Stop Financial Crime and Reduce Costs

Financial crime continues to be a global epidemic with $3.1 trillion in money laundering and illicit flows moving through the global financial system in 2023. To manage, financial institutions increased operational costs and headcounts by 75% in just the past year. Financial institutions are the front-line defense against these growing risks but struggle to keep pace with compliance while managing the costs of their crime-fighting efforts. Join us during our industry panel as we discuss how we can improve the efficiency of AML investigations, solve new AML problems, and help institutions avoid growing costs.

DEEP DIVE - Do You Speak Subpoena? Creating a Common Language for Law Enforcement and Financial Institutions

Financial investigations rely significantly on third-party records, mainly from financial institutions. Transaction monitoring information and well-written SARs provided by AML departments are often effective and efficient, but law enforcement representatives often struggle to achieve the same results through subpoena requests. Financial institutions hold records and data that can significantly aid an investigation, but law enforcement officers often don’t know what exists or how to ask for it. In addition, financial institutions may have varying data and data definitions. Tackling this challenge can help ensure that complete and comprehensive subpoena records are produced to help law enforcement build their case.

This session will cover perspectives and pain points from the points of view of both financial institutions and law enforcement. The focus will be on what is needed for successful prosecution and how law enforcement and financial institutions can work together. Key objectives for success include standardization, translation and collaboration. As AMLA and new data standards are enacted, it’s a great time for both sides to tackle this problem together.

In 2023, the threat of terrorism became more fragmented and diverse than at any time since 9/11. Consequently, the threat environment became more unpredictable for intelligence analysts and AFC professionals. One of the primary catalysts for such fragmentation and diversification has been the nexus between geopolitics and terrorism. This convergence manifested itself with the horrific terrorist attack by Hamas on Israel on Oct. 7, 2023, and the ensuing Israeli response against Hamas in Gaza. What began as a regional conflict had immediate global implications, magnifying the dangerous nexus between geopolitics and terrorism.

This compelling session will focus on the threat and counterterrorism ramifications that will continue to unfold into and well beyond 2024. The discussion will also highlight how the recent National Money Laundering Risk Assessment addresses countering the financing of terrorism.

You will learn how to:
- Identify the geopolitical factors that present opportunities for terrorists and transnational criminals
- Recognize changes in terrorist financing trends, including the techniques used by Hamas, Hezbollah and racially and ethnically motivated extremists, and how public-private partnerships can combat them
- Promote humanitarian assistance while preventing the misuse of funds for terrorist activities

Compliance in Innovation Nations: AML/AFC Issues Around Digital Assets in Latin America

High inflation, official openness and a high volume of remittances from abroad make Latin America a receptive market for digital assets, including cryptocurrencies. For this reason, compliance officers in the region need to be especially well-informed about the pitfalls and potentials of this asset class.

You will learn how to:

- Distinguish between the AML risks of cryptocurrencies, stablecoins and central bank digital currencies
- Tailor risk assessments for the different types of virtual asset service providers
- Implement best AML practices for dealing with payment intermediaries

Gold and Diamond Links in the Sanctions Chain

The link between natural resources, sanctioned entities and illicit actors is yet again in the spotlight. With a desire to increase the bite of Russian targeted sanctions, the US, UK, EU and others have embarked on a steep escalation of global designations and bans for those connected to the gold and diamond sectors. Included within this is the sanctioning of the world’s largest diamond mining company. With more sanctions expected, the bite is only expected to grow deeper. Our panel will set out how sanction-linked individuals and companies participate in these industries, how they generate and move funds internationally, what it means for global supply chain controls and due diligence expectations. We will explore the latest government advisories, displacement effects from key designations, and the numerous risks that are directly and indirectly connected to these global industries.

Inspired by ESPN’s Pardon the Interruption, keep up with our experts as they dive into a fast-paced, dynamic discussion covering various regulatory topics without skipping a beat.

The Anti-Money Laundering Act of 2020 contains several objectives with the potential to significantly alter the compliance landscape for BSA officers. Most notable are the requirement for institutions to incorporate national priorities into their AML program, potential changes to the beneficial ownership requirements under the Corporate Transparency Act, and invigorating BSA whistleblower provisions. This session will look at how AMLA has been implemented so far and what changes are still on the horizon.

Knowledge Lunch Presented by Payall

Revolutionary Approach to AML/CFT in Cross-Border Payments

In the rapidly evolving landscape of global finance, the battle against financial crime in cross-border transactions demands not only vigilance but innovation. Payall is a breakthrough software that uniquely automates end-to-end risk, compliance and other rules and activities as well as orchestrates and harmonizes 3rd parties.

This Knowledge Lunch Session features software that enables unprecedented efficiency, safety and controls in the execution of risk, compliance and operating procedures for cross-border payments and international money transfers. See first-ever, real-time purpose-built software to:

- Automate all risk, compliance and operating rules
- Digitally engage with disbursers, recipients, or others to collect data, documents and artifacts
- Orchestrate and harmonize 3rd parties like Trulio, Thomson Reuters, Lexis Nexis
- Deliver “see-through” to disburse KYC details
- See all data and artifacts for real-time KYT and intervention
- Perform multiple deployment options, including white-label UX/UIs for customers

Presenters:
Julia Marina, Chief Compliance Officer & General Counsel, Payall Payment Systems

Gary Palmer, Chairman, CEO and Founder, Payall Payment Systems
DEEP DIVE - How Financial Professionals Like You Can Help Combat Child Sexual Exploitation

Since the first FinCEN alert about child sexual exploitation online was issued in 2021, awareness of the offense has grown, but child sexual exploitation remains one of the most difficult crimes to investigate. But difficult doesn’t mean impossible. This deep dive will give you practical tools to become part of the solution as a financial professional. Join the fight.

Moderator:
Dr. William Scott Grob, CAMS-FCI, CGSS, Director - Research and Analysis, ACAMS

Presenters:
Christopher Kemp, Director of Enterprise Operations, Anti-Human Trafficking Intelligence Initiative (ATII)
Adam Levine, Director of Government Engagement, Child Rescue Coalition, Inc.

DEEP DIVE - Onshore Institutions in an Offshore World: Managing Risks in Administering Funds Abroad

Even before the imposition of sanctions on Russia, investigations that exposed kleptocrats’ abuse of offshore funds made headlines around the world. Drawing on real-life examples, this session will provide practical AML/AFC guidance for institutions with risk exposure to offshore partners.

You will learn how to:

- Manage indirect investor risk in regulated and unregulated funds based on the various roles banks play in fund administration
- Navigate sanctions risks posed by fund administration, especially when the fund and service provider are in different jurisdictions
- Clarify roles and responsibilities in situations where the fund has delegated AML and sanctions responsibilities back to the service provider

AMA (ASK ME ANYTHING) - Dialing Down the AI Hype Machine

Like the “gluten-free” label on foods that never contained wheat, “AI” has become a new business buzzword, newly applied to what seems like every technology application. But what is AI, exactly? How does it differ from machine learning — and do these definitions matter? What are the compliance implications of using AI in financial services? Bring these questions and more to our Ask the Experts session; they’ll have the answers.

Moderator/Presenter:
Scott Nathan, Global Head of AML Risk Detection and Customer Insights, Citi

Presenters:
Mateo Arbelaez, Vice President, Global Compliance, Mastercard
Kathleen Finn Bell, CAMS, Director of Machine Learning, AML, BMO Financial Group
Jason Shane, Head of Strategy and Innovation, Financial Services, SymphonyAI

DEEP DIVE - Suspicious Transaction Monitoring: New Ways to Cut Through the Noise

Reducing the number of false positive alerts is one of the biggest challenges facing financial intelligence units. This session will present new ways of solving this problem to focus resources on where they will make a difference.

You will learn how to:

- Use existing data to identify higher priority events and automatically escalate them for Level 2 review
- Explore “hibernation” concepts for lower-priority events
- Predict higher-priority events using feature engineering and analytical techniques
- Improve TM detection by leveraging investigative knowledge and experience

Blocking – a Straightforward Concept, or Maybe Not?

Preventing an individual or entity from gaining access to property or other assets is a fundamental pillar of sanctions compliance. But what does ‘blocking’ in 2024 really entail, and how has it evolved in scope and scale of complexity in respect to beneficial ownership considerations? Our panel of practitioners examine current approaches to effectively identifying, locating and determining what should be blocked. We unpack the key challenges encountered, common misconceptions, lessons from recent enforcement actions, and ensuring the robustness of internal controls, management reporting frameworks and the navigation of cross border regulatory obligations.

Moderator:
Paige Berges, Counsel, Anti-Corruption and International Risk Group, Ropes and Gray

Presenters:
Heather Epstein, Deputy Global Head Sanctions, UBS

Francisco Rapp, Chief Sanctions Officer, Citi

Networking for Women in AFC - Hosted by Socure

A compliance career requires grit, ambition and intelligence to get ahead. And women leaders in the AFC field may face a unique set of challenges such as managing work/life balances, corporate cultures that might view assertive female leaders negatively, and difficulty in finding supportive mentors and peers. Join us at this informal networking session, where the only agenda is to meet like-minded colleagues, discuss common career hurdles for women in AFC and, of course, strategies for overcoming them.

OPEN FISHBOWL - The Friction Over Fraud Prevention: Balancing the Customer Experience with Crime Deterrence

For this “fishbowl” session, audience members who raise their hand, figuratively speaking, beforehand will be invited to take a guest turn on stage and share their take on the topic. Step up – literally – and help lead this thought-provoking discussion, made richer by your participation.

Preventing all bank fraud would be easy enough, if only it didn’t involve getting rid of all your customers. This session will show a middle way, balancing customer experience considerations with fraud prevention and detection.

You will learn how to:

• Determine the desired ratio of account profitability versus potential cost of fraud
• Work with your cybersecurity team to understand and align identity verification and authentication strategies
• Analyze fraud complaints using AI so that root causes can be determined and addressed

OPEN FISHBOWL - A Powerful Process: Risk Assessments as a Business Enabler

For this “fishbowl” session, audience members who raise their hand, figuratively speaking, beforehand will be invited to take a guest turn on stage and share their take on the topic. Step up – literally – and help lead this thought-provoking discussion, made richer by your participation.

When viewed through the correct lens, a risk assessment is the process by which a financial institution can increase its capacity to take on or manage risk through an efficient allocation of resources. A good risk assessment is the cornerstone of a good overall business strategy.

You will learn how to:
- Identify challenges to embracing risk assessments as a critical part of an institution’s fiduciary responsibility
- Evaluate the impact of recent enforcement actions that highlight risk-assessment deficiencies
- Assess evolving regulatory developments, including the status of FinCEN’s plan to make risk assessments a legal requirement and recent guidance from the UK’s Financial Conduct Authority and the European Banking Authority

Moderator:
Hue Dang, CAMS-Audit, Global Head of New Ventures, ACAMS

Presenters:
Patrick Dutton, Financial Crimes Strategic Intelligence Director, Financial Crime Risk Management, Wells Fargo

MINI WORKSHOP - It’s Complicated: Relationship Issues Between Banks and their Non-Bank Partners

A shorter version of our hands-on, multi-hour instructional sessions, mini workshops pack an interactive learning experience into just 50 minutes. After 25 minutes of guidance from our expert panelists, you’ll confer with tablemates and then share takeaways with the entire group. In addition to gaining insights from our top-notch speakers, participants also benefit from the collective wisdom and experience of other attendees.

At first, it seems like a perfect match: Banking as a Service (BaaS) providers with their stable deposits, liquidity and fees, and traditional banks perpetually in search of all three. What’s not to love? As it turns out, day-to-day realities pose significant challenges to sustaining a satisfying relationship.

You will learn how to:

- Identify the AML obligations and regulatory expectations in BaaS partnerships and determine who is responsible for meeting them
- Address third-party data sharing challenges to remain compliant while reducing client impact
- Implement specialized screening and monitoring techniques to mitigate risks when there are multiple, nested layers of counterparties

Moderator:
Shilpa Arora, Senior Director, Anti-Financial Crime (AFC) Portfolio Solutions, ACAMS

Presenters:
Marc Fungard, Head of FinCrime, Stripe

Siobhain Ivers, Director, Global Compliance, Etsy

Sophie Moser, SVP, Director of Financial Crimes Risk Management, U.S. Bank

Scott Nathan, Global Head of AML Risk Detection and Customer Insights, Citi
CASE STUDY - Immoral Support: How Facilitators Help Transnational Criminals Exploit the Financial & Trade System

Those who provide support for transnational criminal organizations are a potential point of vulnerability for law enforcement, but unmasking their activities is often challenging.

You will learn how to:

- Evaluate the vulnerabilities inherent in the formation of legal entities and legal arrangements
- Identify roles and responsibilities that attorneys, accountants and formation agents may have in managing money laundering risk
- Anticipate the effects of FinCEN changes to beneficial ownership and the potential impact on facilitators

Moderator:
Dr. William Scott Grob, CAMS-FCI, CGSS, Director - Research and Analysis, ACAMS

Unless you’re a grain farmer, silos have come to have a negative connotation. But there are organizational benefits to having teams work in ways that allow them to focus on their areas of expertise. Is it possible to retain the benefits of silos while allowing participants to share their insights with the broader institution? Find out in this panel, where representatives from varied business areas will talk about how to increase information sharing and collaboration to further AML/AFC goals.

2:50PM-3:40PM  Sanctions, AML, & Export Controls: Taking Stock, Staking Out Priorities, and Paving the Way Forward

The US government and its coalition partners have turned up the dial on Russia- and Belarus-focused strategic trade and export controls, including dual use/battlefield goods. Increasing expectations will necessitate new synergies between how AML, sanctions and export control teams work together. Our public -private practitioner panel will examine the extent that banks and others are becoming the eyes and ears on Russia sanctions and export control compliance. We will explore what is possible, what is effective and where we are seeing the greatest successes in utilizing financial compliance tools to identify and report the suspected evasion of trade controls on Russia.

3:40PM-4:10PM  Networking and Refreshment Break in Exhibit Hall

4:10PM-4:40PM  Networking Groups - Networking for Chapter Members

Make your professional network deeper and broader at this networking event for ACAMS chapter members. Forge new connections as you mix and mingle with compliance peers across companies, industries and geographic boundaries – or get to know members from your own region better. Board members from a variety of chapters will help get the conversations started, but there’s no agenda other than making new contacts to help you in your AML career.

Facilitators:
John Clary, Co-Chair Central Florida Chapter, Division Lead - Governance, Risk and Compliance, TEKsystems
Nicholas Schummann, Co-Chair of South Florida Chapter, US Head of Financial Crime Program, Framework & Engagement, HSBC
ACAMS TALK - For Your Eyes Only: Managing Data Privacy

Big ideas, shorter sessions, smaller audiences. That’s an ACAMS Talk. Come for stimulating intellectual exploration; leave with plenty to think and talk about.

Growing global concerns about data privacy have implications for data managers, financial crime compliance and enterprise risk managers. In this session, learn about data scraping, an under-the-radar approach taken by commercial and private threat actors, the risk it poses, and how companies should combat this.

Presenter:
Oded Anderman, Program Manager, Privacy, Anti-Scraping, Threat Intelligence, META

Going After Snakes, not Mules: New Approaches to Fighting Fraud

Fighting fraud is too often like a proverbial game of Whack-a-Mole, where new versions of old scams pop up faster than financial institutions or law enforcement can respond. But what if the approach were to go after the head of the snake instead of the low-level facilitators like money mules? Panelists from law enforcement and the private sector will discuss new ways of tackling fraud. Topics will include forging public-private partnerships to attack the problem from a broader perspective; using Sections 314(a) and 314(b) of the USA PATRIOT Act to go after the heads of criminal fraud enterprises; and thinking creatively about ways to work with communities to reduce fraud beyond arrests and prosecutions.

Moderator:
Joby Carpenter, Global SME, Cryptoassets and Illicit Finance, ACAMS

The ABCs of Information Sharing Using 314(b)s

Section 314(b) of the USA PATRIOT Act allows financial institutions to share information with one another to identify suspected terrorist or money laundering activities, but it is widely viewed as under-utilized. This session will help overcome some commonly identified barriers to participation and challenges in implementation.

You will learn how to:

· Develop a 314(b) program that helps the institution meet the legal requirements for information sharing, develop policies and procedures, ensure adequate resourcing, and develop metrics to measure and assess the effectiveness and efficiency of the program
· Make quality requests for information and responses with the necessary context and specifics about the activity that help both institutions better identify and mitigate financial crime risk
· Address the common challenges that many institutions face when designing and executing a 314(b)-information sharing program

Moderator:
Alison Jimenez, CAMS, President, Dynamic Securities Analytics, Inc.

Presenters:
Kimberly Lacey, Chief AML Officer, Key Bank

Eyes on the Islands: A Caribbean Roundup

Few places are as affected by events in neighboring nations as the countries of the Caribbean. Representing varied countries and institutions, our panelists will offer their insights on the region’s biggest issues, including the recent round of FATF evaluations; likely effects on Caribbean financial institutions of the United States’ Corporate Transparency Act; de-risking; and regional consequences of political instability in Haiti, including human trafficking, modern slavery and gun running.

Moderator/Presenter:
Dr. Tanya McCartney, President and Chief Executive Officer, GEM Management and Advisory Services Limited

Presenters:
Sandra Edun-Watler, CAMS, Director, SynRgy AML Services

DEEP DIVE - Auditors as AML Partners, Not Pain Points

In financial institutions with audit teams, the auditors’ work is often seen as a source of stress and a strain on limited time and resources. For nontraditional companies like FinTech’s, audits may be seen as a mystery as well as a misery. But with preparation and teamwork, an AML audit or an independent review which is a regulatory requirement can be an opportunity to help both types of companies meet and exceed regulatory requirements.

You will learn how to:

- View the role of an AML auditor/independent review team through the lens of a partnership while maintaining appropriate levels of independence
- Help an AML group audit/independent auditor focus on the areas that will most benefit your AML program
- Work with auditors before and during a regulatory examination to ensure optimal results, identify gaps to regulators and discuss your controls

Moderator:
Daniel Wager, Managing Director, Financial Crimes Unit, PwC

Presenters:
James A. Candelmo, CAMS, Chief Bank Secrecy Act and AML Sanctions Officer, PNC
Jason Chorlins, Principal – Risk Advisory Services, Kaufman Rossin & Co.
DEEP DIVE - North Korea's Illicit Finance: Sanctions Evasion and Abuse of Cryptoasset Platforms

North Korea (DPRK) has repeatedly abused the international financial system, including cryptoasset platforms and providers at scale and at will. As DPRK becomes closer to Russia, how can regulators and law enforcement work with their counterparts in the financial sector to shut down the opportunities to circumvent sanctions? Sharing information on attack vectors, new research, and DeFi exploits is key to being compliant and mitigating the threat. Join us to consider how gaps in the current framework can be closed and how industry can stay compliant with expectations.
